Overview:

Review grammar through typing practice

- Aim: To review key tenses – simple present, past and future - that students have already studied whilst simultaneously giving students an opportunity to practice typing (and peer dictation/listening) skills on tablets.
- Why? Because many young learners are uncomfortable or unfamiliar with using tablets to type text. This slows them down a lot during collaborative project tasks such as script-writing etc.
- This is a pair work activity (sharing one tablet). One student looks at Worksheet 1, unjumbles the words to form a grammatically correct sentence, and then dictates to the other student what needs to be typed into the green box. Then on Worksheet 2, they swap roles.
- Final worksheet is a template worksheet for teachers or students to make their own jumbled grammar worksheets.
- Resources: You need tablets, and Review Grammar Through Typing digital worksheet classroom document (on the website).
